This general intake questionnaire does not give legal advice, and you should not rely on it as legal advice. You should not rely on the information you get from this site and should speak with a lawyer to get advice on your specific situation. While we do our best to provide valuable and accurate information, we cannot promise that the information on this site is complete, accurate, or up-to-date.

This general intake questionnaire is not a solicitation or an offer by the national American Civil Liberties Union and its affiliates (hereinafter “ACLU”) to represent you. We cannot promise you that the information you provide will lead to any specific action on the ACLU or its affiliates. Once you complete the questionnaire, the ACLU may not do anything—including contact you—about your situation.

We receive numerous requests for assistance each week. Every request is carefully reviewed. We will reach out to you only if we intend to investigate your issue further. We can investigate and take on very few cases due to our limited staffing. Please understand that by reviewing your request for assistance, the ACLU is not undertaking legal representation of you and the ACLU is not responsible for ensuring that any statute of limitations requirement or any other requirement or deadline is met in your case. There may be deadlines that will affect your legal rights. As a result, you should not rely on filing an ACLU request for assistance to protect your rights.

If you fill out this questionnaire, you agree that the ACLU, if identified as part of the questionnaire, or one of its coalition partners may use the information you give us, as long as we don’t include your name, address, email or phone number, for one or more of the following purposes: (1) legislative testimony, (2) litigation; (3) contacting a city, state or federal agency; or (4) telling your story to the public, including the media. If the ACLU, or one of its coalition partners wants to identify you, we will contact you prior to doing so.

We will keep your name, address, telephone number and email confidential unless you give us permission to use it or unless we are ordered to turn it over by a court (although we will attempt to prevent any disclosure).

ACLU of Delaware Case Selection Guidelines

The ACLU of Delaware is a private, non-profit organization with limited resources, and not a general legal services clinic. We generally handle cases that may advance and preserve the basic civil rights and liberties provided by the state and federal constitutions and statutes.

We work to promote freedom of speech, religious freedom, racial justice, LGBT rights, women's rights, immigrants' rights, students' rights, reproductive freedom, privacy and criminal justice, to improve prison conditions, and to reduce police abuse. We give priority to those cases that may benefit many people or lead to a change in the law, and are only able to take some of those cases.

We generally do not take cases against private persons or companies not acting on behalf of the government, criminal matters, Family Court matters, or employment complaints. While we handle matters related to immigration enforcement such as improper ICE raids or detention or illegal profiling, we are unable to address inquiries about adjustment of status (such as asylum issues, the availability of special visas, etc.).

We are not a general legal services agency. You can reach the legal services agencies that handle civil matters for people who cannot afford a lawyer by contacting one of the agencies identified in the materials we have enclosed. Look at the information under the heading ATTORNEY REFERRALS/Non-Criminal Cases. You can reach the office of the Public Defender, which handles criminal cases for people who cannot afford a lawyer, by calling one of the numbers listed under the heading ATTORNEY REFERRALS/Criminal Cases.

We do not handle cases or issues that occur outside the State of Delaware. There is a separate ACLU office for every state. If you need ACLU help in another state, you can contact the ACLU office there. Information about how to contact each of them is available at www.aclu.org/affiliates

Additional Information

ATTORNEY REFERRALS

Non-Criminal Cases. To find out if you qualify for free legal help for a non-criminal matter, contact the Legal Help Link at:

www.delegalhelplink.org

If you do not qualify for free help, the Lawyer Referral Service is available atwww.dsba.org/online-lawyer-referral-service and may be able to arrange a 30 minute consultation for you with a private lawyer for $35. Both civil and criminal matters can be discussed with lawyers providing this service.

Criminal Cases. For criminal matters, you can contact the Office of the Public Defender at:

- New Castle County: 302-577-5200
- Kent County: 302-739-4476
- Sussex County: 302-856-5310

FAMILY COURT ASSISTANCE

For civil Family Court issues, you can schedule a free 15 minute consultation with a volunteer attorney at the Self-Help Center in the New Castle County Courthouse, 2nd floor, 500 N. King Street, Wilmington. Call Karen Antonelli at 302-255-2599 to schedule an appointment.

EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION

An employer cannot discriminate on the basis of race, sex, gender, national origin, religion, physical handicap, sexual orientation or age. If you feel that you have been treated differently than other employees because of one of these specific reasons, you may contact the District Office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) at (215-440-2600) (except for sexual orientation discrimination claims) or the Delaware Department of Labor (DDOL) at 302-761-8200 (for all claims). If you intend to file a complaint, it is important to contact the EEOC or DDOL immediately because the deadline for filing a complaint is very short.

NON-EMPLOYMENT DISCRIMINATION

These matters are handled by the Delaware Human Relations Commission. If you intend to file a complaint, it is important to contact the Human Relations Commission immediately because the deadline for filing a complaint is very short.
